

New levelling up powers to fill empty shops across England

New powers will come into effect this summer to help communities take back control of their high streets and revive empty shops to accelerate regeneration.