

New local guidance to tackle synthetic opioid threat

Communities across England will be better equipped to combat the increasing threat of dangerous synthetic drugs, following new advice issued by the Home Office.