

New powers to protect vital free speech at universities

New complaints scheme introduced by the Education Secretary for the next academic year to raise concerns about suppression of freedom of speech.