

New proposals to cut bills with community batteries

Families and businesses could benefit from cheaper energy through the use of community batteries.