

New remote face scanning tech to monitor offenders and cut crime

Thousands of criminals could be kept under additional surveillance by new technology to enhance how the Probation Service monitors offenders and cuts crime.