

New study shows rapid 90-minute Coronavirus test is highly accurate

The rapid lab-free Coronavirus test, known as CovidNudge, has been shown in a new study to have a high level of accuracy and produce very few false negatives and no false positives. The test is currently being used successfully at Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust.