

New UK-made space system to help protect military satellites

Innovative UK-made tech will help the military monitor space following a new £65 million deal agreed today, in British Science Week.