

News story: Biggest ever investigation into energy market builds on what government is doing to keep bills down

The Energy Secretary has responded today to the biggest ever investigation into the energy market.