

News story: New advice to protect homes of England's seahorses and seabream

Natural England has published nine new draft Conservation Advice packages to enable developers and operators to understand the impact of their proposed development on habitats and species in protected sites across England.