

Nuclear fusion boost as government sets to unblock planning rules

Government confirms the UK will be the first country in the world to develop fusion-specific planning rules.