

Ofqual fines UWL £150,000 for rule breaches affecting thousands of music students

University of West London failed to properly oversee how a third party delivered graded music assessments and issued certificates.