

Over £17 million saved in past six months through government office closures

The government has saved over £17 million in the past six months by closing three expensive central London offices and relocating staff to existing spaces.