

Parents urged to read more to boost children's life chances

Education Secretary urges parents to swap scrolling with reading as she launches a National Year of Reading for 2026 to boost kids' literacy and life chances.