

Plan to track progress on lifting 550,000 children out of poverty published

Families across the country will be able to see how the Government will track its progress in tackling child poverty in the years ahead, as a new report is published today (9 July).