

PM: Government turning progress into results for working people

The Prime Minister has set out how the government is delivering real progress now while rebuilding Britain's foundations for the future.