

Police-style powers handed to environment officers as part of plans to bring down waste criminals

New powers will allow officers to intervene earlier and bring more criminals to justice