

Policy paper: Rural proofing: the government's approach and priorities

The government has committed to rural proofing all its policies. This document explains what rural proofing is, why it's important and how it can be applied by government policy makers.