

Press release: Commission for Countering Extremism selects leading academics for research papers

The papers will look at the far right, Islamism, the far left and online extremism. They will inform a first-of-its-kind study on extremism which will be released later this year.