

Press release – Hearing of Commissioner-designate Didier Reynders

Political groups' coordinators from the committees will meet within 24 hours to assess the performance of Commissioner-designate Reynders.

Rule of law mechanism, European arrest warrant and combatting corruption

During his introductory speech, Mr Reynders said that in his first year he will propose an “up and running” rule of law mechanism involving Parliament and Council, which will apply to all member states, with particular focus on those countries where risks have been identified. He referred to recent allegations made against him, underlining that the case has been dismissed and that “rule of law also means presumption of innocence.”

Other priorities mentioned by the Commissioner-designate were a possible review of the European arrest warrant, full support for setting up the European Public Prosecutor's Office, the swift adoption of the collective redress directive, trust and safety as an integral part of Artificial Intelligence policy and the full implementation of the General Data Protection Regulation.

MEPs put forward several questions on the new rule of law mechanism, the ongoing Article 7 proceedings concerning Hungary and Poland and whether there should be action against other EU countries. They also asked about the Parliament's right of initiative, human rights and environmental protection in commercial dealings, as well as holding multinationals to account.

Members also questioned the Commissioner-designate on the need to establish an EU strategy for combatting corruption and digitalising judicial systems in the EU.
