

Press release: Record number of schoolgirls make digital waves but women still under-represented in the cyber security sector

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster David Lidington called for more opportunities for women in the cyber security profession during a speech to the Women in Security Network.