

Press release: UK funding protects 88 million people from the impacts of climate change

Between 2011 and 2021, UK aid has supported 88 million people to cope with climate change, as well as improving 41 million people's access to clean energy, according to new results published today.