

Press release: York graduates win £25,000 national video game competition

A team of university graduates from York has won a national competition that could help take their video game into the homes of millions of gamers.