

Prime Minister announces massive surge in immigration enforcement as returns reach 24,000 since the election

The Prime Minister today (Monday 31 March) announced the government has returned more than 24,000 individuals with no right to be in the UK since the General Election – the highest returns rate for eight years.