

Project SIREN: advancing networked sensing through collaboration

A major breakthrough, delivered through Project SIREN, directly supports the UK's future integrated air sensing capability and provides a clear operational advantage.