

Regional funding to train next generation of construction workers

£96 million to be allocated to create tens of thousands of placements on building sites across the country to plug skills gaps and boost housebuilding