

Research project: understanding the factors that will ensure a smooth heat pump transition for households at risk of fuel poverty

This research focuses on understanding how fuel poor households experience heat pumps and the factors that support a successful transition.