

Science Secretary calls on research funders to back women with better maternity leave and flexible working support

Research funders urged to back a voluntary charter including commitments to paid maternity leave for PhD students and more help to return to work and flexible working.