

Science Secretary hails UK space sector for securing record-breaking contracts and propelling government's mission forward

British space sector secures European Space Agency contracts worth £80 million more than government contributions in last quarter of 2024 – a record for any member state.