

Security boss convicted of obstructing regulator's investigation

The director of a Manchester-based security company has been prosecuted after failing to comply with an investigation.