

Sentence increased for man who brutally murdered former partner in her own home

A man who subjected his partner to controlling and abusive behaviour before murdering her in her own home had his sentence increased after the Attorney General intervened.