

Sheffield soldier of the Great War laid to rest 105 years after his death

A young soldier who died on the Western Front during World War 1 has finally been laid to rest just yards from where he was found.