

Social science for national resilience

How social and behavioural science shaped guidance to support vulnerable people during emergencies.