

Striking images highlight impact of public interruption to military training

The new campaign turns the table on the issue of public interruptions to military training exercises