

Study into long-term health of Armed Forces Community launched

The UK-wide epidemiological study will examine cancer incidence among those who have served since 1990.