

Support for the Deafblind community grows with new funding to assess specialist interpreters, back by the UK government

Thousands of Deafblind people across the country will benefit from improved access to communication support.