Social distancing

A spokesperson said that the Government has been reviewing the feasibility of relevant measures and will make adjustments on a timely basis in view of the latest developments of the disease. Putting in place the Amendment Regulation could help further enhance social distancing.

The Centre for Health Protection (CHP) urges members of the public to go out less and avoid social activities such as meal gatherings or other gatherings and maintain an appropriate social distance with other people as far as possible.

The CHP also strongly urges the public to maintain at all times strict personal and environmental hygiene, which is key to personal protection against infection and prevention of the spread of the disease in the community. On a personal level, members of the public should wear surgical masks when having respiratory symptoms, taking public transport or staying in crowded places. They should also perform hand hygiene frequently, especially before touching the mouth, nose or eyes.

The Department of Health (DH) will closely monitor the situation. Any updates will be issued through the media, the Government's "COVID-19 Thematic Website" (www.coronavirus.gov.hk/eng/index.html) and the DH's webpage (www.gov.hk/ncv). Any enquiries on health information on COVID-19 may be addressed to the DH's hotline at (852) 2125 1122 (operating daily from 8am to midnight).

Hong Kong Customs today (April 1) alerted members of the public to a potential overturning hazard posed by a model of bunk bed for domestic use.

Customs earlier purchased one model of the bunk bed from a household chain store for safety testing. Test results revealed that it failed to comply with the safety standards stipulated in the Toys and Children's Products Safety Ordinance (TCPSO). That model of bunk bed could not pass the stability test and could pose a risk of overturning. In addition, the distance between the vertical ladder of the bunk bed and the ground surface could not fulfil the requirements of the safety standards.

Customs officers later conducted an operation and seized four suspected unsafe bunk beds from four branches of the household chain store.

An investigation is ongoing.

Customs reminds members of the public to observe the following safety tips when using bunk beds:

- Bunk beds should stand close to a wall and should be fixed with an overturn-proof device;
- An examination should be carried out after assemblage to make sure that the bunk bed stands safely;
- Advice and instructions for users should be read carefully;
- Never let children play and tumble on the bunk bed;
- Never attach belts or ropes to bunk beds to avoid potential risk of strangulation;
- A good distance should be kept between the mattress and the guard rails above; and
- Stop using the bunk bed immediately if it is found to be unstable.

Customs is committed to the protection of consumer interests and regularly conducts spot checks and safety tests on toys and children's products to ensure that they are reasonably safe for use by consumers.

Under TCPSO, it is an offence to supply, manufacture or import unsafe toys or children's products. The maximum penalty upon conviction is a fine of $100,000 and imprisonment for one year on first conviction, and a fine of $500,000 and imprisonment for two years on a subsequent conviction.

Members of the public may report information relating to suspected unsafe toys or children's products via Customs' 24-hour hotline 2545 6182 or its dedicated crime-reporting email account (crimereport@customs.gov.hk).

Anti-epidemic Fund extends support to construction industry

The Development Bureau (DEVB) announced today (April 1) that the Anti-epidemic Fund will extend the beneficiaries of the support measures to the construction industry.

Under the new arrangement, the support measures will be extended to cover construction workers with valid registration in a specified period under the Construction Workers Registration Ordinance (Cap. 583) as well as small and medium enterprise (SME) consultants which are company members of professional institutions and associations. The workers are those who are engaged in small-scale works outside construction sites, e.g. those involved in renovation, repair and maintenance.

"Each eligible worker will receive a subsidy of $1,000 and each eligible consultant will get $20,000. We expect that the new arrangement will further benefit about 240 000 construction workers and 400 SME consultants to help cover their extra expenses in enhancing anti-epidemic equipment amid the impact of the outbreak," a spokesman for the DEVB said.

The DEVB and the Construction Industry Council will announce the implementation details shortly.
