

“No more buck passing” – Greens call on Keir Starmer to resign over latest Mandelson revelation

17 April 2026 / 17 April 2026 by Green Party

Reacting to a report in the Guardian that Peter Mandelson was appointed as ambassador to the US despite failing the Government vetting process, Green Party MP Siân Berry said:

“Keir Starmer has lied and lied again over his decision to appoint Peter Mandelson and he must resign. Starmer told Parliament ‘due process’ had been followed. This report makes clear that was untrue.

“He has tried to blame the vetting process, when in fact it is reported that a decision was taken to ignore a failed vetting. We need answers on what and when Starmer and David Lammy knew about this decision to overrule the vetting report.

“The precise reasons for Mandelson’s failure to pass this vetting must be made public, even though it was known to everyone that Mandelson was friends with the world’s most notorious paedophile prior to the appointment. It is outrageous that it is being reported that senior government officials are now considering whether to withhold from parliament documents that show Mandelson wasn’t given security clearance.

“No more buck passing, no more mysteriously vanishing mobile phones, the public need the truth.”

Adblock test \(Why?\)

“No more buck passing” – Greens call on Keir Starmer to resign over latest Mandelson revelation

17 April 2026 / 17 April 2026 by Green Party

Reacting to a report in the Guardian that Peter Mandelson was appointed as ambassador to the US despite failing the Government vetting process, Green

Party MP Siân Berry said:

“Keir Starmer has lied and lied again over his decision to appoint Peter Mandelson and he must resign. Starmer told Parliament ‘due process’ had been followed. This report makes clear that was untrue.

“He has tried to blame the vetting process, when in fact it is reported that a decision was taken to ignore a failed vetting. We need answers on what and when Starmer and David Lammy knew about this decision to overrule the vetting report.

“The precise reasons for Mandelson’s failure to pass this vetting must be made public, even though it was known to everyone that Mandelson was friends with the world’s most notorious paedophile prior to the appointment. It is outrageous that it is being reported that senior government officials are now considering whether to withhold from parliament documents that show Mandelson wasn’t given security clearance.

“No more buck passing, no more mysteriously vanishing mobile phones, the public need the truth.”

Adblock test \(Why?\)

Greens announce measures to end the affordability crisis and ‘normalisation’ of foodbank use

14 April 2026 / 14 April 2026 by Green Party

The Green Party has warned that the use of foodbanks in the UK has become ‘normalised’, pointing to the fact that around 6.5 million people a year turn to charitable food providers and that one in five people doing so are from a working household [1].

In 2025, 2.9 million emergency food parcels were provided to people facing hardship across the UK between April 2024 and March 2025, with more than a million of these provided for children [2].

Green Party leader Zack Polanski and deputy leader, Rachel Millward, will use a visit to a Community Fridge in Sussex on Wednesday [3] to announce measures to end the ‘normalisation’ of food banks and tackle the ‘affordability crisis’. They will call for:

- universal support with energy bills this winter
- the extension of free school meals to all primary and secondary pupils
- the introduction of rent controls – because housing costs are one of the greatest impacts on household poverty
- the UK to join a customs union with the EU to reduce costs to businesses
- the introduction of a 10:1 pay ratio which would help increase wages for those on lower incomes while limiting the salaries of high-paid executives.

Zack Polanski, leader of the Green Party said:

“The affordability crisis is something affecting nearly everyone, from the most vulnerable to people in work and comfortable, where any change in circumstance can push people over the edge into requiring a foodbank. This crisis is totally avoidable and down to choices made by this Labour government and previous Tory governments. The Greens have a plan which would make different choices, taking on corporate power and vested interests to give ordinary people a way out of this crisis”

Rachel Millward, deputy leader of the Green Party said:

“The UK is the sixth largest economy in the world [4] where the 50 richest families hold more wealth than the poorest 50% of the population [5]. Yet millions face food insecurity, food poverty and turn to foodbanks to prevent them going hungry. A high proportion of these are people from working households.

“It’s time to end the normalisation of food bank use and the scourge of food and energy poverty affecting so many families. Greens are bringing policies to the table to do just that.”

Notes

1. Food-bank-facts-1.pdf
2. UK sees 51% rise in emergency food parcels for families, says Trussell | Charity Today News
3. GDP by Country \(2026\) – Worldometer
4. UK’s richest 50 families have more wealth than 50% of the population

Adblock test \(Why?\)

Hope beat hate – how Greens took on Reform in Kent... and won!

Hope beat hate – how Greens took on Reform in Kent... and won!

The Green Party has a new councillor on Kent County Council, but that's only half the story.

Cllr Rob Yates – and his hundreds of campaigners – defied all the odds to defeat Reform in a “seismic” victory in a Margate by-election last week, upending all predictions, and leading the way for Greens looking to defeat Reform in May.

Greens vs Reform. Hope vs hate.

At the launch of the Green Party's local election campaign last Thursday, Green Party leader Zack Polanski made clear what's at stake at the ballot box in May:

“This election is between the Green Party and the Reform Party. It is a straight up battle between hope and hate.”

His message to voters was just as clear:

“We can reject the hate of Reform and instead bring in politics that actually benefits people's lives, that improves their living standards, lowers their bills and redistributes power and wealth from the super wealthy into our communities”.

But can hope really beat hate? Can the people-powered Green Party take on Nigel Farage's billionaire-backed Reform party and win?

We didn't have to wait until May to find out.

The same day Zack was launching the Greens' national election campaign with an affordable housing pledge in South London, local Green campaigners were out on the doorsteps in Margate to turn out the vote in a crucial council by-election.

No more no-go areas for the Green Party

The seat: Cliftonville. The council: Kent County Council. A Reform seat – won just last year with 40% of the vote – on a Reform-controlled council.

The Green Party came fourth in that 2025 election, but that didn't deter candidate Rob Yates nor campaigners across the region. After all, the Green Party wasn't supposed to win in the Gorton and Denton parliamentary by-election. And as with the waves of Green support that flocked to Manchester, Greens turned out in Margate.

On the day before the election, over 400 people joined Zack on the Margate seafront for an emergency rally called with just 24 hours' notice – all inspired by the simple message that a vote for Rob was a vote for hope.

When voters in Cliftonville headed to the polling station the next day, they would not just be casting their ballots. They would be giving their verdict on a chaotic year of Reform control in Kent, and putting Zack Polanski's argument that hope can triumph over hate to an early test.

The result was decisive. The people of Cliftonville voted hope.

As with Hannah Spencer's victory in Gorton and Denton, Rob Yates defeat of Reform on home turf made one thing clear: there are no more no-go areas for the Green Party. Greens can take on Reform anywhere – and win.

"Greens are the antidote to Reform"

Reactions from Greens underscored the significance of the "seismic" result.

Having added county councillor to a resumé that already includes district councillor and a career in renewables, Rob Yates said the result "shows that across Kent and across the country the Greens are the antidote to Reform."

Mark Hood, the Green Group leader on Kent County Council, said the result was "seismic" for Kent and for the country. "Reform lost this seat after less than a year due to their dismal record of failure, chaos and managed decline running Kent County Council. The defeat is a major embarrassment for Nigel Farage."

And Green Party Leader Zack Polanski noted the pattern of wins vs Reform: "Greens are making a habit of taking on Reform – and winning! Robert Jenrick came to visit – as did Emily Thornberry. And their vote share both dropped. Huge congratulations to the entire Green Party team. People power wins the day once again!"

Greens are taking on Reform where you live – help us win

As Zack said at the campaign launch, it will be Greens vs Reform in May.

Greens beat Reform in Manchester and again in Kent thanks to the incredible turnout of Green campaigners.

Greens can beat Reform where you live – but that will depend on you.

We can win big all over the country in May – but we'll need your help. You can help us replace Labour and defeat Reform. There are action days all over the country. Find one near you and sign up today.

Green Party

LE2026 High Priority Targets

Which
Green Team
can you help win?

Find an action day: greenparty.click/actiondays

Featured photo of Margate rally by Aldo Ciarrocchi

Adblock test \(Why?\)

Hope beat hate – how Greens took on Reform in Kent... and won!

Hope beat hate – how Greens took on Reform in Kent... and won!

The Green Party has a new councillor on Kent County Council, but that's only half the story.

Cllr Rob Yates – and his hundreds of campaigners – defied all the odds to defeat Reform in a “seismic” victory in a Margate by-election last week, upending all predictions, and leading the way for Greens looking to defeat Reform in May.

Greens vs Reform. Hope vs hate.

At the launch of the Green Party's local election campaign last Thursday, Green Party leader Zack Polanski made clear what's at stake at the ballot box in May:

“This election is between the Green Party and the Reform Party. It is a straight up battle between hope and hate.”

His message to voters was just as clear:

“We can reject the hate of Reform and instead bring in politics that actually benefits people's lives, that improves their living standards, lowers their bills and redistributes power and wealth from the super wealthy into our communities”.

But can hope really beat hate? Can the people-powered Green Party take on Nigel Farage's billionaire-backed Reform party and win?

We didn't have to wait until May to find out.

The same day Zack was launching the Greens' national election campaign with an affordable housing pledge in South London, local Green campaigners were out on the doorsteps in Margate to turn out the vote in a crucial council by-election.

No more no-go areas for the Green Party

The seat: Cliftonville. The council: Kent County Council. A Reform seat – won just last year with 40% of the vote – on a Reform-controlled council.

The Green Party came fourth in that 2025 election, but that didn't deter candidate Rob Yates nor campaigners across the region. After all, the Green Party wasn't supposed to win in the Gorton and Denton parliamentary by-election. And as with the waves of Green support that flocked to Manchester,

Greens turned out in Margate.

On the day before the election, over 400 people joined Zack on the Margate seafront for an emergency rally called with just 24 hours' notice – all inspired by the simple message that a vote for Rob was a vote for hope.

When voters in Cliftonville headed to the polling station the next day, they would not just be casting their ballots. They would be giving their verdict on a chaotic year of Reform control in Kent, and putting Zack Polanski's argument that hope can triumph over hate to an early test.

The result was decisive. The people of Cliftonville voted hope.

As with Hannah Spencer's victory in Gorton and Denton, Rob Yates defeat of Reform on home turf made one thing clear: there are no more no-go areas for the Green Party. Greens can take on Reform anywhere – and win.

"Greens are the antidote to Reform"

Reactions from Greens underscored the significance of the "seismic" result.

Having added county councillor to a resumé that already includes district councillor and a career in renewables, Rob Yates said the result "shows that across Kent and across the country the Greens are the antidote to Reform."

Mark Hood, the Green Group leader on Kent County Council, said the result was "seismic" for Kent and for the country. "Reform lost this seat after less than a year due to their dismal record of failure, chaos and managed decline running Kent County Council. The defeat is a major embarrassment for Nigel Farage."

And Green Party Leader Zack Polanski noted the pattern of wins vs Reform: "Greens are making a habit of taking on Reform – and winning! Robert Jenrick came to visit – as did Emily Thornberry. And their vote share both dropped. Huge congratulations to the entire Green Party team. People power wins the day once again!"

Greens are taking on Reform where you live – help us win

As Zack said at the campaign launch, it will be Greens vs Reform in May.

Greens beat Reform in Manchester and again in Kent thanks to the incredible turnout of Green campaigners.

Greens can beat Reform where you live – but that will depend on you.

We can win big all over the country in May – but we'll need your help. You can help us replace Labour and defeat Reform. There are action days all over the country. Find one near you and sign up today.

Green Party

LE2026 High Priority Targets

Which
Green Team
can you
help win?

Find an action day: greenparty.click/actiondays

Featured photo of Margate rally by Aldo Ciarrocchi

Adblock test \(Why?\)