

Former SRUC student wins BIGGA Young Greenkeeper of the year Award

Alistair Morrison, Head Greenkeeper of Durness Golf Club in Caithness, recently won the BIGGA Young Greenkeeper of the Year Award 2018, which recognises up-and-coming talent in the golf industry.

Let the drain take the strain

Scottish drainage expertise will help the capital of Iceland to cope with warmer and wetter winters in the future.

Waste not

Scottish farmers are being encouraged to work closely with retailers to accurately record food waste and help ensure that more fruit and vegetables make their way along the supply chain.

Horse of inspiration

People can care for their horses in a way that is good both for the animal's welfare and for the environment, according to an international equine expert.

New structure for SAC Consulting Business Managers

When Andrew Lacey arrived at the tail end of last year to the role of Head of SAC Consulting Solutions, one of his first challenges was to develop an organisational structure to meet future needs.