

Tech giants meet disability sector to break down barriers at work

Disabled people are set to benefit from the expertise of some of the world's tech giants to help make the workplace more accessible to them.