

The lessons of the last 12 months

When anniversaries come around, the temptation is always to look back.

One year on from the EU referendum it is right to reflect on everything that's happened. But the most important thing for the people of Scotland, now, is to look forward.