

Thousands with undiagnosed hepatitis and HIV found in A&E testing

New evaluation of NHS England's emergency department opt-out testing has identified thousands of people living unknowingly with bloodborne viruses.