

UK and Czechia to lead global race on small modular reactors

British workers will further benefit from a new generation of nuclear power.