

UK and France partner on navigation systems to protect critical infrastructure from hostile threats

UK and French researchers join up to shield critical infrastructure, including power supplies and emergency services, with more resilient navigation and timing systems.