

UK Armed Forces better protected with new jamming-proof navigation tech

UK Armed Forces personnel will be better protected from enemy interference with navigation systems through the development of innovative new technology.