

UK driving action on climate and nature at UN General Assembly

The UK government has put tackling the climate and nature crisis front and centre of discussions at last week's annual gathering of the UN General Assembly.