

UK flags to be flown at half mast for London Bridge attack victims

Flags on UK government buildings will fly at half-mast on Saturday 30th November 2019, as a mark of respect to those who lost their lives and all others that were affected by the attack on London Bridge on Friday.

Other organisations and local authorities may follow suit.

Published 30 November 2019