

100,000 stuck in ambulances this winter 'entirely unacceptable' – Jonathan Ashworth

Labour's analysis of the latest NHS England winter data reveals that over 100,000 patients have been stuck in the back of ambulances this winter.

Labour's analysis further reveals that almost 25,000 patients have been forced to wait longer than one hour. The recommended ambulance handover time according to NHS Improvement is 15 minutes.

Jonathan Ashworth MP, Labour's Shadow Health Secretary, responding to Labour's analysis of ambulance delays, said:

"Despite the brilliant efforts of our NHS staff, these findings reveal the uncomfortable reality for many patients this winter. It is unacceptable that over 100,000 patients have been stuck in the back of ambulances for over 30 minutes, a waiting time which is more than double the recommendation of NHS Improvement.

"Under the Tories bed numbers have been cut by over 14,000, and as a result bed occupancy has remained at dangerously high levels this winter. Last week it was 94.9 per cent, which is nearly 10 per cent higher than the recommended safe level.

"Labour will give our health service the funding it needs to remain a world class service for all."

refugee crisis in Calais is in reality an admission of failure – Abbott

Diane Abbott MP, Labour's Shadow Home Secretary, speaking in response to reports of a new deal on Calais refugees, said:

"This new attempt to address the refugee crisis in Calais is in reality an admission of failure.

"We have repeatedly been told that security measures would solve the problem, but it has just shifted it from Calais to Sangatte and back to Calais again.

"We need humane treatment of all these people, safe and legal routes for genuine refugees and the UK Government needs to honour our moral obligations by taking our fair share of refugees."

Today's findings are damning indictment on Government's failure to tackle gender pay gap – Butler

Dawn Butler MP, Labour's Shadow Minister for Women and Equalities, commenting on reports by the ONS and the Young Women's Trust on the gender pay gap, said:

"Today's findings are a damning indictment on the Government's failure to tackle the gender pay gap. While the Government claims progress, this latest analysis exposes severe work inequalities faced by women across the country and it is clear that we need urgent action to address it.

"This year marks 100 years since some women were allowed to vote for the first time. Although much has been achieved since this historic moment, there is still a lot of progress to be made in terms of gender equality and achieving equal pay is one of them.

"Addressing the barriers that contribute to the gender pay gap is key to this. Labour will make it a priority to tackle discrimination in the workplace and provide free childcare. We will close the gender pay gap and introduce a civil enforcement system to ensure compliance with gender pay auditing. It is not right that women across the country face this unfair treatment."

Jon

Trickett MP, Shadow Minister for the Cabinet Office, responding to reports that the government is now placing Interserve under watch, said:

“The

Government awarded Interserve numerous contracts after significant profit warnings, clearly showing us that Carillion was not an isolated case.

“The Tory

Government is wedded to a dogma which would rather see public services in private hands, so their shareholders cream off the profits and the British people pick up the bill.

“Even when these huge firms are in unstable positions, the Government would rather risk our services than actually run them for the public .

“The time is up on the few profiteering at the expense of the many.”

2030 EU target for phasing out single-use plastics demonstrates lack of ambition in Government's 25 Year Environment Plan – Hayman

Sue Hayman MP, Labour's Shadow Environment Secretary, commenting on the launch of the EU's plastics strategy, said:

“Labour welcomes the EU plastics strategy published today. The fact that the EU is bringing forward a target of 2030 for member states to phase out single-use plastics demonstrates the lack of ambition and vision in the Government's 25 Year Environment Plan.

"Labour calls on the Government to confirm whether they will amend the approach outlined in their 25 Year Environment Plan in light of the EU strategy published today to ensure that the UK does not fall beneath EU standards on the environment and that action on single-use plastics is not kicked into the long grass."
