

Neuberger ECJ warning shows Government leaving judges in firing line on Brexit

Today Supreme Court President Lord Neuberger has warned that UK judges need more clarity over the role of the ECJ after Brexit – and he is right.

Go to Source

Author:

Labour leadership must end infatuation with Venezuela

Today's statement by Jeremy Corbyn on Venezuela is a disgrace.

Labour have yet again failed to condemn President Maduro as he slides his country closer to dictatorship.

Go to Source

Author:

UK's weekly payment to EU half the £350m Brexiteers claimed

New Treasury figures have revealed that the UK made a net payment of roughly £156m a week to the European Union in 2016/17, the lowest level for five years.

Treasury figures suggest the UK's net contribution to the EU budget for the 12 months to March 2017 was £8.1bn, or around £156m a week.

Go to Source

Author:

The Government is trying to claim credit for EU rules

Today, the Government announced their draft Data Protection bill – which includes a raft of measures that will improve all our privacy online.

Go to Source

Author:

Sir Simon Fraser comments show Govt's shamolic approach to Brexit

“We haven’t put forward a lot because, as we know, there are differences within the cabinet about the sort of Brexit that we are heading for and until those differences are further resolved I think it’s very difficult for us to have a clear position.”

Sir Simon Fraser, the Permanent Secretary at the Foreign Office until 2015

Go to Source

Author: