

Health Minister reinforces support available on World Suicide Prevention Day

Health Minister Robin Swann has stressed the importance of seeking help on this year's World Suicide Prevention Day.

The Health Minister commented: "The Covid 19 pandemic has made us all acutely aware of how our mental health needs must be met as well as our physical needs. The restrictions put on our daily lives and routines have meant that for many of us loneliness and feelings of desperation have crept in, but I want to reinforce on this year's World Suicide Prevention Day there is support and help available to anyone who needs it. No one must feel that there is no other option.
