Press Statement
Heather Nauert

Department Spokesperson

Washington, DC
September 19, 2017

Our thoughts and prayers are with the people of Mexico affected by today's 7.1-magnitude earthquake and other recent natural disasters. We stand ready to provide assistance should our neighbors request our help. Our embassy in Mexico City has sent out public messages to U.S. citizens in Mexico, and the embassy stands ready to provide consular assistance to any U.S. citizens who may have been affected. We offer our condolences to any who were injured or lost loved ones.

Press Releases: On President Trump's Address to the UN General Assembly

Press Statement
Rex W. Tillerson

Secretary of State

Washington, DC
September 19, 2017

Today, President Donald J. Trump presented to assembled world leaders his vision of security, prosperity and peace led by sovereign nations. That vision requires a recommitment to the founding principles of the United Nations – to promote peace in troubled times. The President has clearly illuminated the challenges facing the community of nations, including those posed by DPRK, Iran, and Venezuela. As stated by the President, the world needs a renewed and reformed United Nations to tackle these great challenges.

Office of the Spokesperson

Washington, DC
September 19, 2017

The below is attributable to Spokesperson Heather Nauert:

Secretary Tillerson called Burmese State Counsellor Aung San Suu Kyi on September 19, to discuss the humanitarian crisis in Burma's Rakhine State. The Secretary welcomed the Burmese government's commitment to end the violence in Rakhine State and to allow those displaced by the violence to return home. He also urged the Burmese government and military to facilitate humanitarian aid for displaced people in the affected areas, and to address deeply troubling allegations of human rights abuses and violations.

Office of the Spokesperson

Washington, DC
September 19, 2017

The University of Virginia Darden School of Business Institute for Business in Society, Concordia and the U.S. Department of State's Office of Global Partnerships is pleased to announce during the 2017 Concordia Summit in New York City today, the winner of the fourth annual P3 Impact Award: Sanitation Marketing Systems in Bangladesh.

A model public-private partnership (P3) between the Bangladesh Department of Public Health Engineering (DPHE), the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC), UNICEF, iDE, and Rangpur Foundry Ltd. (RFL), the partnership seeks to strengthen the sanitation system in Bangladesh and prevent the spread of disease by facilitating scalable, sustainable access to improved sanitation.

The partnership has, as of June 2017, trained 340 latrine producers – 32 percent of whom are women – who sold over 37,000 improved latrines. Long-term social and economic impacts include improved health and wages saved from avoiding illness, as well as increased skills and employment for latrine producers.

Sanitation Marketing Systems in Bangladesh and four award finalists were featured in a special edition P3 Impact Award article series within the Darden School's thought-leadership publication, Darden Ideas to Action. The series features leading practices and actionable insights from the winner and finalists. It will also continue to be used to develop teaching cases and other materials to share and advance best practices with other public-private partnerships around the world. In addition, Sanitation Marketing Systems in Bangladesh will receive a full scholarship to attend a week-long Darden Executive Education course.

The 2017 award finalists included: The Accenture and Upwardly Global Partnership, CARE-Cargill Partnership: Nourishing the Future in Central America, Goldman Sachs 10,000 Women, and Partnering for Poultry.
